Advance Guard's De-

His Chances of Capturing Gravesend

Candidates Figure.

Metropolitan Herbert would probably have won with an even break. His only fault is that of beginning slow, and if the field is large this will handicap him. Of the others Monograph and Roehampton are the most prominent. The writer does not believe that Flywheel worked in 2.07 1-2. If he did, it was on the express train that brought him down from Westchester.

His form at Westchester would not permit of his running a mile and a quarter in less than three minutes. He can scarcely have improved so much in so short a time.

Roehampton is undoubtedly a dangerous horse. Blessed with an enormous turn of speed, he has the chance to get clear of his field and make the running undisturbed. The question is whether he will go the route.

In his second start at Westchester he had every opportunity to make good, but at the end of a mile and a sixteenth he was done to a tarn If he goes a mile and a quarter in the company he meets to-morrow it will be a surprise to more than one.

Mile and a Quarter Trip of Monograph in So far as the writer is concerned, the Will Win Handicap.

The Brooklyn Handicap will be a a bit of doubt on that question, for breaking watches in their trials, and the pace will be heartbreaking from the time the gate raises until the keen eye of Judge McDowell catches the nose of the first horse that flashes by him.

Never before in the history of this race has interest been at such fever heat. On every street corner, in all the a discussion of the Brooklyn Handicap andidates and the fast trials they have its mind that Herbert was the most likely horse in the big race. This was after Herbert ran so well in the Metro-politan Handicap. Then reports of the fast work of Blues sent him into popular favor and he was settled upon as

Along comes Advance Guard and shows in his races that he is a better colt than he has even been before, and he becomes a public choice. ## BROAD IN DENVER TO-NIGHT, feat of Heno Improves Ten-Round Bout Will Be Champion's First Contest Since He Beat McGovern.

DENVER, May 23.—"Young Corbett," the feather-weight champion of the world, and "Kid" Broad, the rugged little Cleveland fighter, will try conclusions in a ten-round bout before the Denver A. C. here to-night. This will be the first battle in which Corbett has engaged since he won the championship from Terry McGovern at Hartford, Conn. last Thanksgiving Day. The admirers of pugilism are anxiously waiting to see how well he shows up against Broad. It is expected that the bout will attract one of the largest crowds that ever saw a fistic battle in the betting, the sporting men of Denver offering odds of 2 to 1 on his chances of beating Broad. Although the boys are carded to box only ten rounds it can be safely said they will furnish more fighting in that short space of time than any other fighters would in a twenty-round engineers. Both are fighters pure and simple, who usually sail in at the sound of the gong to heat their opponent as quickly as possible. Corbett is cleverer than Broad, and as he is also a harder puncher the indications are that he will win. Corbett will be seconded by Bob Armstrong and Johnny Corbett, while as being in perfect condition. The Classic-How Other
